

Change of Address

We are writing now because we hear some of our friends did not get our change of address with our Christmas letter and some others may not have heard that we have changed the house name

Come now and you'll see the garden much more developed.

Also, our work on the house is now close enough to finished that we can declare ourselves well and truly open to visitors. Oh, do ring first. It isn't that you're not welcome: it's just that we don't accept responsibility for anyone who puts the address into their Sat-Nav and ends up in the wrong Beckingham (Lincolnshire has two) – or driving down the wrong hill side!

And a big “Thank you” if you got our “e-mail” and voted for our church on “Restoration Village”. Yes, we were on the tele carrying our balloons out of the church door. We didn't win that round but there are a few more irons in the fire.

We built the decking, seen here from the opposite bank of the river – or if you like, seen from Nottinghamshire.

The deck makes the river bank a lot easier to use, especially for Andrew.

This was taken earlier in the year. It's just as good with the trees in leaf.

We have fitted out a study for each of us. This is Mikki's – but you may have guessed that.

More news from us at Christmas as usual. In the meantime all best wishes from us both.

Andrew
